

The removal of names from the sanctions list

At the end of 2006, the Security Council decided to create a focal point where people as well as companies whose names were placed on the list of a sanctions committee, can apply for being removed from the list. Belgium has made a statement according to which people who either have the Belgian nationality or live in Belgium, have to submit a request directly via the focal point.

This is the address of the focal point:

Focal Point for De-listing
Security Council Subsidiary Organs Branch
Room S-3055-E
United Nations
New York, N.Y. 10017
United States of America
Tel. +1 917 367 9448
Fax. +1 212 963 1300/3778
Email: delisting@un.org

The focal point has also a website: <http://www.un.org/sc/committees/dfp.shtml> through which you can consult resolution 1730. The aforementioned resolution details the filing procedure as well as the processing of a request.
